MONETA CASA

it is a highly versatile seating system.

Its complex design was developed to respond to spaces and architectures marked by extremely diverse identities.

It allows for infinite compositions which can all be traced back to three main design morphologies.

The sofa has a gently curved silhouette in both the small and large sizes, both also available in a peninsula version.

The armchairs, on the other hand, are available in a fixed or swivel version, the latter with a curved metal base that conceals the swivel mechanism.

The ottomans, in different shapes and sizes, take up the design of the armchair base and, also proposed on castors for easy movement, give the living room a more informal feel.

The amazing versatility of the Lawrence sofa reveals itself in the option of creating highly dynamic compositions through the combination of different pieces

The family hosts a range of seats for different environments, from the living to the night area, including sofas, elements with one armrest, an armchair and ottoman, and a varied selection for the bedroom. It is characterised by a Mid-Century aesthetic revisited and modernised not only in its lines and volumes, but also in its use of materials, in particular Dark Brown stained palisander Santos, and in its elegant structural details.

Every element of the system is made with exquisite goose down padding to ensure maximum comfort, features cushions finished with a piping that defines their profile and a distinctive aluminium strip, slightly rounded at the edges which skims the floor, in a brand new polished Brandy colour finish.

Composed of soft upholstered pieces that can be combined among themselves, the Perry seating system heralds a new way of designing living spaces with innovative arrangements, using modules whose irregular shape makes it possible to break up the linearity of furniture configurations lending them a more dynamic flow and more casual appearance.

The variety of available modules – stand-alone, L-shaped and asymmetrical seating elements, ottomans and chaise longues, cowhide-clad storage, and wood coffee tables – allow for the creation of a great number of arrangements: from more compact stand-alone versions, ideal for face-to-face placement, to larger, more complex solutions, designed to enliven a distinctly contemporary domestic landscape.

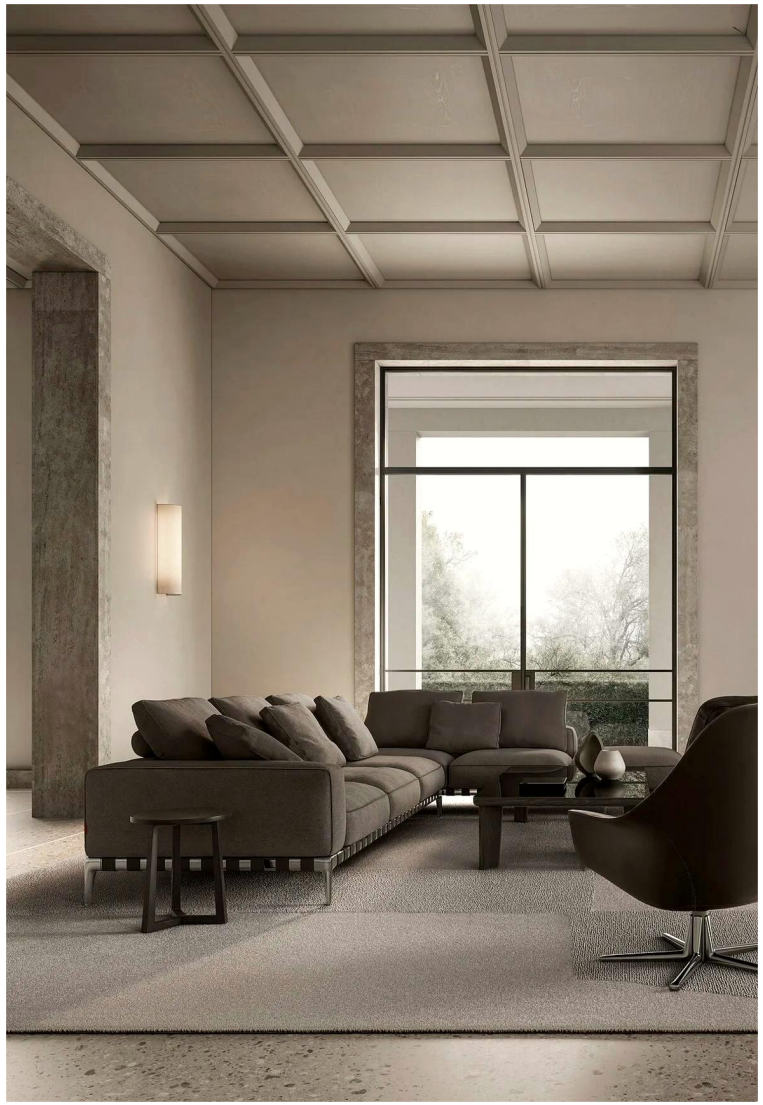
INTERIORS

The austerity of the unique metal base is softened by the warmth of the elegant leather used to tailor-finish the exposed parts of the elastic webbing that hosts the seat cushions. Just like the couture tailoring of the grosgrain piping that outlines the soft cushions, this formal-aesthetic solution traces back to the expertise that is the essence of the company's genetic legacy.



It expresses the extraordinary visual contrast between the lightness of the metal structure, available in a variety of finishes, and the ample seat and backrest cushions, generously padded in goose down, set against the cowhide-clad base.

An elegant fold embellishes the cushion upholstery, an intricate craftsmanship detail that traces back to Flexform’s innate tailoring expertise.

A harmonious balance that creates an ultra-enveloping seat of unparalleled comfort perfect for moments of relaxation, especially when paired with the ottoman featuring the same characteristics.

The feet, embellished with a small jewel-like button, preserve the interplay of vertical and horizontal elements inspired by the typical traditional Japanese manufacturing details from which the family takes its name, and accommodate the upholstered volume of the sofas and armchairs

The shell of the seats – available in wood or upholstered in leather – accommodates the seat and back cushions, tailored with stitching, and rises upward to support the soft cushioning of the armrests.

The Happy armchair features an unique seat back made up of a metal frame embellished with a sophisticated and entirely hand-woven open-weave design made with cowhide cord. The soft, goose-down-filled seat and seat back cushions offer striking visual contrast to the understated yet elegant metal structure. The couture tailoring of the upholstery is accented by tone-on-tone or contrasting color grosgrain piping.
